

Pamela Wheeldon

Professional Bio

Ms. Wheeldon believes strongly in Catholic Education and enjoys working at St. Charles because of the joy and enthusiasm among the faculty and staff. Here she can combine her personal, religious and professional life among highly dedicated co-workers. She has been teaching since 1976 in California, Wisconsin, and New Mexico. She has a BS degree from NMSU in elementary Education with a minor in Early Childhood Education and a MED degree in Educational Administration from Tarleton State University in Texas. She belongs to the Reading association at the National, State and Local organizations, and is treasurer for the State organization. She also belongs to NCEA and The Workshop Way National organization. She has had experience working in the space program at Houston and is a docent at the New Mexico Museum of Natural History and Science. One day, in the near future, she plans to get her Reading endorsement and open a "Doggie Day Care" when she retires.

Educational Philosophy

Her philosophy of education is to provide a classroom free of fear; to promote self-worth; to teach and model organization of time, materials, and techniques related to an effective learning process; and to maintain a way of "living to learn" as students become responsible for their own education.
